LI WOODWORKERS SHOW

Thanks to all of our members who helped to make the largest LI Woodworkers show to date the best yet. This year the show moved to Hofstra University. The LIWA once again participated in the show by displaying its turnings, manning a booth that demonstrated turning for the general public and presenting seminars for interested woodworkers. We appreciate all of the hard work that goes into organizing this event. It proves that Long Island is at the forefront of spreading woodworking education to the Northeast United States. We support the craftsmen and artists who create great wood products as well as the vendors that supply the tools and materials.

Thanks to Mike Daum, President and Bob Urso, VP along with the other officers and members of the Woodworkers Club for inviting the LIWA to participate. Thanks to Norm Abrams, Marty Rost and many others for helping arrange our display. Thanks to Charlie Panzner for providing blanks and turning tools. Thanks to Jim Diamond and Alan Russo for doing turning seminars and the following members who participated in the demonstrations on Saturday and Sunday: Norm Abrams, Joe DeMaio, Jim Diamond, Charlie Panzner, Carl Saenger, Alan Russo, John Wagner, Pete Richichi.
